

Esteemed colleagues,

For the seventh time, on November 10th 2017, the Faculty of Philosophy in Niš is organizing the international conference with the collective and work name of Science and Contemporary University. The goal of the conference is to provide a space for scientists, researchers, university professors and future teachers to discuss the different aspects of this topic from the perspective of their own field of study in humanistic, social and philological sciences. Presentations dealing with comparative topics pertaining to Serbian and other academic, scientific and educational areas are always welcome. Applications may be sent to answer topics belonging to the following sections:

1. Philosophy in the light of new philosophical disciplines
2. The Russian Revolution – The legacy and challenges
3. Historiography and contemporary society
4. The media and public communication in contemporary context
5. Dual education in the area of communication and journalism
6. The problems and perspectives in contemporary rearing and education
7. Empirical research in psychology
8. Social inequalities in Serbia: Sources and Outcomes
9. The center and periphery of scientific production
10. Contemporary turns in Literary Theory
11. Contemporary turns in the Serbian language studies
12. Francoromanistics and Slavic languages and literatures in contact and contrast

Presentation duration will be limited to 20 minutes (presentation 15 minutes and 5 minutes for the discussion). The official languages of the conference are Serbian and all other Slavic languages, English, French and German. Papers which receive positive reviews will be published in the conference proceedings. We invite you to take part in the conference.
